

AMERICAN CITIZENS ARE ASSURED OF GOOD TREATMENT IN CANADA

Lieut. J. A. Crozier of the British-Canadian recruiting office in Milwaukee, who has had some rather hazardous experiences since his arrival in Milwaukee, declares that banded side travelers, American citizens, or citizens of neutral countries who go to Canada are assured of courteous treatment.

Lieutenant Crozier, called the "pioneer" of the Canadian army, is the man who was responsible for the removal of the fifty-ton statue of Germania from the Germania building which is the home of Milwaukee's largest German language newspaper. Since the removal of that statue and the delivery of many patriotic addresses by Lieutenant Crozier, he has been the target for several threats and letters. Similar ones had been received while he was stationed in California, but these were the first to be received in Wisconsin.

Referring to the treatment American visitors may expect in Canada he declares that Americans or citizens of allied nations are welcome to enter and leave Canada without difficulty. Some of the passport rules, or rules of Canada are not required according to a revised memorandum on passports given out by the Superintendent of Immigration at Ottawa. But subjects of countries with which Canada is at war may not enter Canada for any purpose whatsoever. Persons born in enemy countries who claim naturalization in the United States or in some other allied or neutral country must carry naturalization papers or statutory declaration endorsed by a British Consul in the United States. Persons of evident enemy origin who claim to have been born in the United States or in some other allied or neutral country are requested to carry a passport or statutory declaration endorsed by a British Consul in the United States.

Persons not ordinarily resident within Canada, but who enter Canada on a visit or for some other temporary purpose do not require a passport. The only persons who require a permit to leave Canada are males between 15 and 45, ordinarily resident within Canada; hence, only males between 15 and 45 should ask for the non-resident card.

"JOIN THE MARINES OR LEAVE HOME"; HE ENLISTED

Lancaster, Pa.—"Either join the marines or leave home." This was the ultimatum issued to Frank A. Landenberger, a silk weaver, of Marietta, Pa., by his patriotic wife.

When Landenberger appeared before the recruiting station recently, he was told that he would have to obtain his wife's consent before he could be accepted.

"Consent?" he asked, laughingly. "Why, she told me that any man who called himself a man would be fighting for his country and that I would have to enlist in the marines or leave home. Guess that's enough consent, isn't it?"

Landenberger was accepted immediately and his spartan wife was on hand at the depot to see that he started on his way to help make the world "safe for democracy."

DAMAGE BY CUTWORMS FARMERS CAN PREVENT

Letter Received at This Office Gives Methods to Be Followed to Prevent Corn Crop Losses.

Realizing that extensive damage is done to the corn crop during the season by cutworms and that it is of vital importance that the farmers take all possible methods to prevent their destructive work, the following letter has been received at this office stating the steps to prevent their operations:

The letter follows:
I find that cutworms are causing considerable damage to many corn fields throughout this section. Since it is impossible for me to reach more than a very few farmers I want to suggest that you publish an article made up of excerpts from the enclosed leaflet which has just been issued. My work prevents me from giving more than a very little time to the cutworm problem, but I know that the control recommended in the enclosed leaflet will work for it has proven successful in many localities.

I feel sure that considerable more injury can be expected, and know that such an article will be appreciated, and will be the means of helping save at least some of the seed corn which was so difficult to obtain.

I would appreciate not having my name connected with the article for that would be contrary to the policy of the department.

How to Prevent Cutworm Losses.
Land to be planted to corn the following spring, especially such land as has laid in grass for considerable time and is likely to contain cutworm eggs, should be plowed in midsummer or early fall about the time the eggs are laid, or better, before the eggs are laid, for then vegetation which is suitable for the moth to lay her eggs upon is removed. The earlier the preceding year grasslands to be planted to corn are plowed, the less will be the probability that the eggs will be laid there, and the less, consequently, will be the danger of injury by cutworms the following year.

Late fall and winter plowing of grasslands, although not as effective as early plowing, will destroy many of the hibernating cutworms, as well as such other important corn pests as white grubs, and should be practiced when earlier plowing is impracticable. Pasturing hogs upon land supposed to harbor cutworms is a beneficial practice, as the animals root up and destroy many of the eggs, including cutworms in large numbers. Farm poultry, if trained to follow the plow, will prove an inexpensive method of destroying cutworms.

When cutworms are found to be abundant on corn land, the use of Paris green, or lead arsenate, is recommended. This may be prepared as follows: Mix 50 pounds of wheat bran, 2 pounds of Paris green, and 6 finely chopped eggs. Then bring the mixture to the consistency of a stiff dough by the addition of 3 or 4 lots of low-grade molasses, such as is used in cattle rationing, adding water as necessary. Distribute this bait over the infested field in small lumps, taking care to sprinkle it sparingly around each hill. This should be used at about from 5 to 7 pounds to the acre, and can be broadcasted by hand. In case bran can not be readily obtained, middlings or alfalfa meal may be successfully substituted. In fields where cutworms are not so numerous, the bait should be started as soon as the corn begins to appear above ground so that the cutworms may be eliminated as completely as possible and the injured hills promptly replanted. During the warmer spring months cutworms do most of their feeding at night, and the depth of an inch or two during the day, so that the bait will usually be more effective if applied during the late afternoon or early evening.

Frequently cutworms migrate to cultivated fields from adjoining grasslands, and in such cases the crops can be protected by running a narrow band of the poisoned bait around the edge of the field or along the side nearest the source of infestation.

What Is Man?

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
Director of Practical Work Course,
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT: What is man that thou art mindful of him?—Psalm 8:4.

Pope in his essay on man says: "The proper study of mankind is man." This, however, is only in part true, for mankind cannot be fully known apart from the revelation of God.

Not an Exalted Ape.

There are some wise men who would have us believe that man is the offspring of an ape; if so, then man is an exalted ape because between man and the ape, as we know them, there is a wide difference. In arriving at their conclusion it is barely possible the wise men were led into it by following Pope's suggestion, and in so doing discovered in man what they thought to be ancestral traits, for if there is any being on earth who can make a monkey of himself, man is the one.

Many have accepted the Darwinian theory of the evolution of man as a substantial fact, when the truth is there is not a single proof in support of it. It is simply a hypothesis—a supposition assumed. The late Dr. James Orr, the Scotch theologian, who was competent to speak upon this subject, says: "It is vain to speak of science demonstrating the slow development of man from the anthropoid ape, for it does not such thing. There is no proof of this in science up to this present hour. There is no evidence of any such gradual process."

A Created Being.
Turning now from the hypotheses of men, we note that the Bible teaches that man is a created being. This fact which is stated in the first and second chapters of Genesis is confirmed by other Scriptures, so that we are by no means dependent upon the Genesis account for it. Our Lord himself adds his confirmatory words when he says: "Have ye not read that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said for this cause shall man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh?" (Matt. 19:4-5).

Upon this account of the creation of man in Genesis and the quotation from that book, Christ bases his teaching upon the sanctity of marriage. It is surely subtle reasoning that admits the truth of Christ's teaching and at the same time charges him with basing it upon what he knew, as some say, was only a fable. Surely, such a one should not be what he claimed to be, "the way, the truth, and the life." No matter what men may say about the origin of man, the fact remains that the Scriptures, substantiated by Christ, uniformly teach that he is a created being.

In the Image of God.

Further the Scriptures teach that man was made in the image of God. This is quite different from being evolved from an ape. This makes man the offspring of God, and not of a monkey. It exalts him, instead of debasing him. He begins his being as a man, and not as a something of the lower creation which gradually through long periods of time changes into what he now is, which if the hypothesis be true, would make him an exalted ape. If the theory be true, what is to hinder the process of evolution going on and man developing into something specifically different from what he now is, and so on ad infinitum?

We have mentioned the wide difference between man and the ape. Now the essential difference between them does not consist in the brain capacity of the skulls, in hairy or smooth skin, but in the fact that man was made in the image of God. By this is not meant a bodily likeness, for we know "God is a spirit" and "a spirit hath not flesh and bones." (John 4:24; Luke 24:39).

The Image Marred.

But alas! man fell through sin and the image was marred. Such is the teaching of the Bible, which is quite contrary to the hypotheses of men who boast of the ascent of man, while sin has gone away from God and not toward God; that this apostasy involves the whole human race, so that "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God"; that the catastrophe of sin is so complete that man is helpless and hopeless because of it to save himself from it. The Bible, however, does not leave man, in whom the image of God is marred without hope, for it tells him that "where sin abounded, grace did much more abound," and that God has made provision for the redemption of man in the redemption which he provided on Calvary's cross by which the image of God marred by sin shall be restored in those who accept his Son as their Savior.

NEW FLAG WILL BE RAISED AT STATION

New Flag Will Be Dedicated at Chicago Northwestern Railroad Saturday Afternoon.

Tomorrow afternoon another flag will be raised by the employees of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. This time the flag raising will be at the local station, where the ceremonies will be held at two-thirty o'clock when one of the young ladies from the freight offices will hoist the flag.

W. H. Dougherty will be the chief speaker for the occasion while Father Henry Williamson will deliver the invocation. It is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance, as many railway employees and their friends have half holiday Saturday afternoon.

ALL STARS DEFEATED BY MYSTICS YESTERDAY

After winning several victories and not suffering a defeat this season, the Janesville All Stars yesterday bowed to the Mystics to the sound of 9 to 4. Bok was on the mound for the Mystics and pitched a tight ball throughout the game.

It was the first defeat the All Stars have met with this season and their playing yesterday was very poor. The Mystics played good ball, not an error being charged against them.

STALLING GAME DOES NOT WORK ON JUDGE

Stanley Marinsky Attempts to Play "Deaf and Dumb" Game on Judge Maxfield.—Other Cases.

Stanley Marinsky, who claims Milton as his home, made efforts to get away with a "deaf and dumb" show in the municipal court this morning. When arraigned on the charge of breaking into someone's freight cars at Milton and stealing valuable goods, he made motions with his hands to show the judge that he could not talk. When all efforts failed Judge Maxfield set his examination for next Monday, when the judge is certain that he will be willing to talk.

The raid on the freight cars in Milton was very pronounced, several pounds of coffee, a Winchester rifle in addition to several other articles. He was taken in custody by a railroad detective who brought him to the county jail. While in the county jail Marinsky refused to talk and strenuous efforts were necessary to get him out of the cell to take him to the municipal court.

Takes Pledge.
In view of the fact that Albert Stanley of Edgerton, has a large family to support and that he was not "very drunk" Judge Maxfield allowed him to take the pledge for one year. When he had done so he was dismissed and allowed to depart for Edgerton to get back to work.

Bull Montana, who spent yesterday in the lockup alone, pleaded not guilty to the charge of drunkenness and his trial was set for five o'clock this afternoon when the arresting officer will give his testimony.

Civil Action
In a civil action Henry Loerke was given judgment of $10 against William W. Brunson. Money was claimed by the plaintiff for work done in moving a garage belonging to the defendant. John L. Fisher represented the plaintiff and Edward Ryan the defendant.

WELL KNOWN ACTOR VISITOR HERE TODAY

Low Rose Visits His Nephew and Niece, Prof. and Mrs. W. T. Thiele.—Is Now a Big Theatrical Manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Low Rose and Howard Crassons, all of New Orleans, La., and Mrs. Joseph Thiele of Whitewater spent the day today with Professor and Mrs. W. T. Thiele. Mr. and Mrs. Rose and Mr. Crassons are on their way to New York and other eastern points and are enjoying their trip greatly.

Doubtless many local people will remember Low Rose, who played here in several shows at the Myers theatre many years ago. He began acting when only fourteen years old. He is now manager of the Southern Theatre Circuit for the states of Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama. He is so pleased with Wisconsin that he plans to spend next summer in the state, possibly in Janesville.

While visiting in Whitewater last week Mr. Rose and Mr. Crassons chose a novel way of raising money for the Red Cross. They raffled off candies and turned over the surprising sum of $227.75 to the Red Cross war fund.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Harold Lloyd, who used to be "Lonesome Luke," has forsaken the town comedy and will henceforth play comedy parts with a "straight" make-up. In looking over the list of screen comedians it would seem as if Harold and Sidney Drew were the only men who dared appear before the camera in conventional garb and attempt to act comedy parts. The rest all resort to employing abnormal points of physical appearance, such as extreme fatness, thinness, tallness, shortness, extremely large feet, crossed eyes, or an exaggerated comedy make-up with atrocious false whiskers and putty noses.

It has been unanimously voted by the fair sex that any one as good looking as Harold should never even have thought of such camouflaging. Lloyd is an amiable young man, very good to look at, and he is fast proving that a screen fun-maker can get make-up and actions, such as burlesque releases are "Fireman, Save My Child," "The City Slicker," "Six Men, Towered and 'Somewhere in Turkey.'" This last is said to be the funniest thing he has ever done.

DOUGLAS' TRAINER IN THE NAVY
Bull Montana, has enlisted in the United States navy. He will be rated as physical instructor for the entire submarine base, which includes thousands of enlisted soldiers.

Bull will be remembered for his work in several pictures with Douglas Fairbanks. He also served as athletic trainer for the athletic star who presented him with a handsome watch on the eve of his departure to join the colors.

He was discovered last year by Douglas in Bothner's gymnasium and was immediately placed under a long term contract that began with "In Again, Out Again."

Setting a Bill.
When Andrew Jackson lived at Salisbury, N. C., he once attended court at Rockford, then the county seat of Surry, and left without paying his bill, which was duly charged up against him on the hotel register, which seems to have been the hotel ledger at that time, and so stood for many years. When the news of the victory of the 8th of January, 1815, was received in this then remote section the old landlord turned back the leaves of the register, took his pen and wrote under the account against Andrew Jackson, "Settled in full by the battle of New Orleans."

All Wool is economy

Better have it in your clothes

NEXT time you buy clothes, no matter where you go, ask if they're all-wool. Don't be put off without a plain answer. The clothier may say: "You know me; you know I wouldn't sell you anything that wasn't all right;" but that doesn't answer the question.

If he says, "yes," you can't tell, perhaps, whether it is all-wool or not; he may think it is; maybe he doesn't know.

There's only one sure way of knowing what you're getting in clothes this spring, aside from a chemical test of the fabrics; and that way is to buy goods that are guaranteed by the maker to be all-wool and all the rest that goes with it.

We offer you Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes because the makers dare to take a positive ground on the quality question; they don't dodge; they don't keep silent; they're positive in their statement and in their facts. You can depend on them; and us.

ANGLERS ARE WARNED TO OBEY STATE LAWS

Arrests Will Follow Failure to Observe State Regulations—Two Men Have Already Been Before Judge.

Conservation Warden William P. Mason has issued a warning to all fishermen to observe section 29.27 of the fishing laws of Wisconsin, relative to the prohibited methods of fishing. Many complaints have been received showing that snag lines have been used by recent anglers in their efforts to increase their catches of fish. The use of snag lines is illegal and the offense is punishable by a heavy fine or imprisonment for those convicted of the charge. Two men have already been brought up under the charge and more arrests will follow unless the practice is stopped immediately.

The law follows:
Section 29.27. Prohibited Methods of Fishing. (2) Snag lines. No person shall set, place, use, have or control any snag line or snag pole, means, trap line, cable or pole to which a number of fishhooks or clusters of fishhooks of any kind or description are attached, and designated to be placed in or drawn through the water for the purpose of catching or drawing such hooks into the body of the fish. Violations of this subsection shall be punished by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $100, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than six months nor more than nine months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

MORRIS MILLER

The chances are Provost Marshal General Crowder's order to send all men of draft age not engaged in essential occupations into some phase of war service, the army if needs be, will not have the effect of closing the major league ball parks, as was feared at first. It develops that the Washington authorities were mistaken in their belief that the new regulation would close the big leagues. War Secretary Baker frankly says that he believed most of the men were either over draft age or children of 12. It is said that when it comes to a showdown the government will regard baseball as essential, and if it appears that General Crowder's program will hit the game seriously sufficient exceptions will be made to permit the various leagues to come through the season all right. Just what the sentiment is regarding the game is reflected in the recent action of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, who of their own accord ruled the ban on Sunday baseball for the season. They also permitted the game to be played to permit Washington's wartime population to have some place to go on the Sabbath.

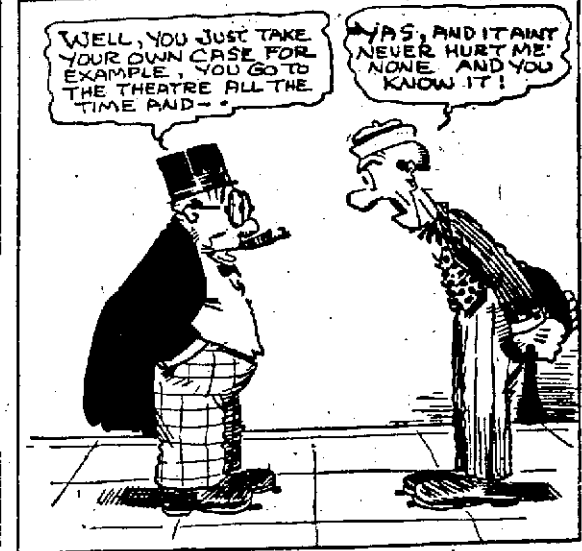

Incidentally, it is the credit of the men back of the game that they came out immediately and unqualifiedly in the endorsement of the Crowder order. The universal sentiment was "if the government thinks the end of the war will be hastened by closing the ball parks we will close them without a moment's delay."

With Sherwood Macoe hitting .350 Cincinnati misses Hal Chase at first as badly as a catpaw would miss an ankle.

Athletic sharps have argued for a number of years over the respective merits of the late Martin Sheridan and Jim Thorpe, now playing with the New York Giants, as all-around athletes. There has never been any room for argument, save in track and field work. With baseball and football considered, Thorpe stands head and shoulders over any other ever developed in this or any other country. In track and field events he was not much to choose between the two men. Thorpe was better in the high jump, the sprints and the hurdles, while Sheridan excelled with the weights and particularly with the discus. Since Sheridan and Thorpe quit active competition, there has been no man developed to take their places. Howard Berry, late of the University of Pennsylvania, was a very versatile athlete, but not in the class of Sheridan and Thorpe.

Boston has made Babe Ruth its new idol. Boston met always has been Smokey Joe Wood. The Boston fans used to think Wood was the greatest hurler baseball ever had. We remember reading long stories about him when he was in his prime in which the serious minded Beantown scribes sought to prove he could

CAMP GRANT NOTES

(Wisconsin Eagles.)
More than 600 recruits from Wisconsin have been attached to the regiment since Saturday. Although they remain under the jurisdiction of the depot brigade, the recruits are being quartered, dressed and drilled by the "Eagles" who were rookies last fall.

"Old Abe II," the mascot, presented by the Eagles of Milwaukee, is strutting proudly in a large new home just east of the regimental headquarters and proves a popular attraction to visitors who pass on South Front street.

Company B.
Sergeant James H. Hansberry, Madison, Wis., having successfully completed the course at the third officers' training school, was assigned to this company.

Private Otto Hansen, 5498 Cornell avenue, Chicago, has been detailed to instruct at the school for bakers and cooks.

Company F.
Private E. R. Hayes of 67 East 42nd street, Chicago, was the city Sunday to attend the dedication of St. Elizabeth's service flag of one hundred stars. Practically all of the members are overseas and he and one other soldier were the only representatives of the army.

The Muldavia, which recently sank in the English Channel, carried a former member of this company, who is now in the hospital. Private Frank Roux enlisted at Rice Lake, Wis., October 8, 1917, and was transferred in March.

Company L.
Sergeant Klammmer, who hales from Kaukauna, Wis., is slowly but surely going dippy. Since the arrival of the new recruits, he has been writing about fifty times a day for all the usual articles, such as, guard line, drill field key, left handed shelter, and a raft of other things familiar to old time.

Sergeant Jim Miller of Hortonville, Wis., says he knows why our ancestors were such ragged men. "Jim" has it all depicted on his face. He was assigned to the Pioneer platoon.

Headquarters Company.
The 341st infantry band and orchestra is gaining recognition outside of camp. It is considered to be the finest in camp, according to the men in the regiment. One June 5th it will appear in a concert at Freeport, Ill., and will have several prominent artists appearing on the program.

Company A.
Lieut. Colonel Coleman has been assigned to the regiment and Vice Lieut. Col. Eaton transferred to the depot brigade. Col. Coleman will continue on special duty as commandant of the fourth officers' training camp.

Major A. A. Sprague has been relieved from special duty as the division headquarters and has taken command of the second battalion.

Intensive training in modern battle formations is being given the regiment under direction of the French mission. Officers and non-commissioned officers will have a good working knowledge of this important work by the time this regiment is recruited to full strength.

A large cage for "Old Abe II," the mascot presented by the Milwaukee Eagles, is being constructed on Front street, just north of headquarters.

Company A.
Captain Leo G. Hanna has been transferred to the depot brigade.

Company M.

FITTING HONORS FOR HEROES OF U. S. WARS

HUNDREDS IN ATTENDANCE AT
HELD AT MYERS
DAY AFTER-NOON.

ADDRESS IS STIRRING

Rev. Melrose Pays Excellent Tribute to Those Who Fought and Died for Democracy—Other Numbers Interesting.

With four soldiers as living recollections of the present war and the three previous ones seated near him on the stage, Rev. J. A. Melrose, of the Presbyterian church, delivered a stirring speech in commemoration of the heroes of the past and tomorrow, at the Myers opera house yesterday afternoon before an audience which packed the house from the footlights to the balcony.

Chairman for the occasion was R. C. Burnham, who in introducing the speaker, and gave an address fitting the occasion after reading the general orders of General John A. Logan, commanding that May 30 be made a day to "preserve and strengthen those kind and fraternal feelings which have bound the soldiers and sailors who united to suppress the late rebellion."

After reading Logan's command he said, "What would he say, seventy years ago, if he saw that this country, which he helped to build, was in the greatest struggle in its history?" Mr. Burnham also spoke of the great meaning of that day which is "dedicated to the purpose of erecting with flowers or otherwise, monuments to the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and to the memory of the brave men, sailors, soldiers, city and churchyard of the country."

In his speech he called attention to the soldiers who have been in the thick of battle for their country and one of whom, in khaki, is about to go. Gilbert Everson, who is the only living soldier of the late rebellion, was in the front row. He served in the Mexican war unassigned to any regiment.

B. H. Baldwin, veteran of the 14th Illinois cavalry of this war, was next, when Mr. Burnham referred to the seven months of incarceration in the famous Andersonville prison camp and the horrors which he endured while there. He brought bitter tears of memory trickling down the furrowed cheeks of that veteran.

C. H. Cox was the third in line. He is a veteran of the 1st Illinois infantry which fought along side the Rough Riders of Colonel Roosevelt in the trenches before Santiago, Cuba, in 1898. He knows what it means to fight and appreciate what the boys now have on hand in Europe.

Carol T. E. Tresson, private in the Ordnance Mobile Engineering corp, was the fourth and only member of the stage who is ready and waiting for a call across the "pond" to uphold the reputation which the soldiers in the former battles established.

"Memorial day, today is the greatest and most profound memorial which we have ever celebrated," said Rev. Melrose in opening his address. "First it recalls the fine memories of the brave men who have died in the great conflict, which is now raging in Europe. All the sacred things of the past are now gathered in the present. We have them now, our boys are fighting in Europe."

"They are like a sheet of grain-dew, which is scattering its meaning in France, in England, in Italy, in the present. We have them now, our boys are fighting in Europe."

"They are like a sheet of grain-dew, which is scattering its meaning in France, in England, in Italy, in the present. We have them now, our boys are fighting in Europe."

"They are like a sheet of grain-dew, which is scattering its meaning in France, in England, in Italy, in the present. We have them now, our boys are fighting in Europe."

His words of the two kinds of patriotism and their distinction. He distinguished it as a patriotism where one side is noble and the other clear. He made a most searching denunciation of that kind of patriotism which is outside of society instead of inside and that part of it which is a patriotism of this kind. When speaking of this he spoke of the men who do not want any rules set as to how long, a child, a woman or a man may work and under what kind of conditions labor should be performed. He said that this contract theory of independence springs up years ago with the preaching of Rousseau. "This was all wrong," he said as all persons are an integral part of society. He then prompted the listeners to risk their all on a perilous voyage into what was then the unknown, not because they were oppressed but because they wanted a religious freedom and the first democrats on this continent.

During his talk Rev. Melrose contrasted the freedom which springs from the doctrines of the savior, and of the religious which prompted the pilgrim fathers to risk their all on a perilous voyage into what was then the unknown, not because they were oppressed but because they wanted a religious freedom and the first democrats on this continent.

When speaking of the new democracy which is now dawning throughout the world he stated that "Yellow skinned men and men from the south part of Asia and Africa are now fighting side by side with the men from the west and that each is pre-paring in his own way with the feeling of the new world of democracy."

He continued that this was a battle of people and that we are now one united mechanical battering ram which will knock down the walls of autocracy which have been a barrier against. This was, according to the statement the "iron man" of Germany, will not be won on the battle line but by the people back and then only when the people begin to disintegrate, he stated.

The school children, led by Miss Emily Sewell, sang three war songs which were greatly appreciated by the audience. While Miss Catherine Shaver sang two songs and received such an ovation that she had to respond to an encore. Charles Viney recited a medley "The Little Brown Button" which singularly spoke of the intrinsic value of the little brown button which designates a man as a hero. Rev. Melrose gave the benediction. The Bower City band furnished the music. Miss Bennett accompanied both Miss Sewell's school children and Miss Shaver on the piano in a most delightful manner which greatly helped to make this Memorial day the best ever celebrated in Janesville.

MEMORIAL DAY PARADE WAS GRAND SUCCESS

Finest Parade Ever Held on Decoration Day Staged Yesterday Afternoon—First Appearance of Co. G.

Marching to the strains of all the patriotic airs Janesville paid full tribute to the soldiers of the past and present yesterday afternoon. The parade was one of the finest ever staged in the city and the band came in the city and before the hour set for the start of the parade.

Headed by three members of the police department the parade started exactly on time and the crowd applauded continuously while the procession passed by. Following the police came the Bower City band, which was led by Miss Catherine Jones. The car contained representative soldiers of the four wars of the United States. B. H. Baldwin of the Civil war, Charles Cox of the Spanish American war, Gilbert Everson of the Mexican war and Carol T. Tresson of the regular army of the present war.

Next in line was the 10th Regiment, U. S. C., under the command of Captain David Atwood. It was the first appearance of the company and the showing they made was most remarkable. They were mostly cheered all along the line of march. Following Co. G came the high school cadets in their navy uniforms. Hemming, command of Lieut. Victor Stevens. The young boys made a splendid appearance and received the applause of the crowd as they marched by.

Next in line was the Boy Scouts. With their heads erect and their eyes straight to the front, they marched like veterans. Following the Scouts came the G. O. P. members who turned out in full force. The Spanish War Vets and veterans of by-gone wars, and members of the W. H. Sargent Post.

It was an ideal day for a parade and many people from the country and near-by towns were in the city to attend the celebration. In the morning the auto owners of the city displayed the auto owners by turning out to carry the veterans to the cemeteries to decorate the graves. The number of cars which were used in the parade was the largest number that was ever used in the city. The Boy Scouts assisted the ladies in decorating the graves of the departed soldiers.

GRANT UNIT TO MAKE RECORD TRUCKS TRIP

Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., May 31.—Final preparations are being made here today for probably the longest overland trip ever taken by a complete unit of the American army. The 31st supply train, which is a unit, composed of about 500 officers and men, and 215 motor trucks, is scheduled to move out of Camp Grant Saturday morning in command of Maj. Hays McFarland for an Atlantic sea trip.

The train will travel as far as Chicago in the army motor trucks which have been in use here since the last war. The trucks are new Liberty motor trucks, in which the trip will be made to the eastern seaboard. Just how long will be required to make the trip is not known here, but it is stated that the purpose is not for the purpose of immediate departure overseas.

Ready to Sail in Eight Weeks. Maj. Gen. Charles H. Martin, division commander, has made it plain that he proposes to have his entire command ready for duty in France within eight weeks. It is stated that no better training could be had for the men of the supply train than to move overland with their cars to a point of embarkation. They will be put on a ship and such a trip would greatly relieve the freight car congestion, as the trucks are capable of carrying upward of 400 tons, leaving their bulky weight out of consideration. The urgent need of freight cars for hauling ammunition and other implements of war is given as the chief purpose of the overland journey. The motor cars in use by the unit were sent along with the 161st artillery brigade to Sparta, Wis., and these are now traveling night and day on their way back to Camp Grant in order to move out with the rest of the organization.

May Make Second Trip. It is felt here that the artillery brigade will leave Sparta directly for overseas duty when the period of firing practice has been completed there and it was stated also that members of the supply train might return to Chicago and make a similar trip from there, carrying equipment of other organizations.

An estimate was made that the caravan of trucks would be at least three miles in length. The route is not given for the motor trucks, as Chicago being the only city mentioned.

The supply train is composed of a headquarters detachment and six companies of seventy-six men each, besides the officers commanding them. In addition to Maj. McFarland, are Capt. J. A. Bell, L. B. Dyer, J. D. Campbell, Kenneth Ingersoll and M. W. Clarke, and First Lieutenant Ralph Elliott. Each company is in charge of thirty-one trucks.

PULPWOOD CONSUMPTION AND WOOD PULP PRODUCTION

Washington, May 31.—The total pulpwood consumption in the United States during 1917 is estimated by the forest service, on the basis of reports made by the pulp mills at $58,802, an increase of approximately six percent over the 1916 figures. Not all the mills have yet made their returns, but the figures of the preliminary report are not expected to be materially changed when the final compilations are completed. In 1917, domestic spruce formed 45.8 percent of the total, as against 55.9 percent in 1916 and 1917 and 13.4 percent in 1916.

Wood pulp production in 1917 is estimated at 3,464,511 tons, as compared with 2,713,310 tons in 1916. The 1917 production included 1,493,704 tons of mechanical pulp, 1,488,396 tons of sulphite pulp, 421,871 tons of soda pulp, and 15,740 tons of sulphate pulp.

Two hundred thousand men of draft age, because of minor physical defects, have been held by examining surgeons throughout the country for limited military service. It is planned to utilize the services of these registrants and thus release thousands of men in better physical condition for the front line. The spruce production division of the aviation section. Some 10,000 men of the army now are engaged in getting spruce timber in the Canadian north and the spruce is constantly in demand for the new men to train in the field will constitute no new policy, it is understood that it has been decided to call for the 100,000 men of these registrants that I. W. W.'s have retarded the output of spruce.

There are seventy-two registrants in this district who may answer the call and it is hoped that a large number of these registrants will be sent. Only white men qualified for special or limited military service are wanted. The two hundred thousand called for are:

"KEEPING OUR FIGHTERS FIT" PROVES POPULAR

One of the most interesting parts of "Keeping Our Fighters Fit—For War and After," by Edward F. The prize is awarded annually from funds given by Jacob Gimbel of Vincennes, Ind. Last year it was won by Russell N. Hathaway.

The book tells of the clubs for our fighting men started by war camp community service, of the information bulletins published by it and of the hospitality by civilians which it has stimulated everywhere. "Take a soldier home for dinner" was a slogan for a time, it says, "but now it is a habit." It changed the attitude of hundreds of cities and towns. Soon the question was not, "What are the soldiers going to do for us?" but "What can we do for the soldiers?" The organization has evolved a remarkable system—a system with a personality. It proves that machinery may have a heart.

"We visited a landlady who had overcharged the wife of a young soldier and five dollars. One of the military police came in and said that two more soldiers' wives were to be turned out by a shyster landlady, and I went up and saw the landlady. She was a very nice woman and she paid the money straight out. I arranged for a couple to be married at a friend's house. A young French soldier came in and he was very shyly asked if we could send him to a home where there was a baby since he had one at home that he had not seen for a long time. We did so."

The book describes the innumerable properly chaperoned dances given by war camp community service, and the hospitality through the churches stimulated by it, which is used as an avenue by which religion is forced on those who accept this hospitality. It tells of the drinking fountains, comfort stations and other facilities erected by the service in cities where there were none formerly, of the community singing and the sort of opportunities for wholesome, stimulating and healthy diversion are offered to your soldier boy on leave, the book is well worth reading.

SPECIAL EQUIPMENT FOR CAMP CUSTER

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.] Camp Custer, May 31.—Trains of ordnance and special equipment have been arriving at Custer daily for the past several days. Equipment included new style combat wagons, and a novel type of caisson which it is stated are much more easily handled in the field the heavier type in service now. Officers at headquarters admit that regardless of whether the division will soon move for "over there" it is fast becoming equipped so that it can. Two brigades generally have been assigned to the division, leaving but one such command now to be filled. The work of preparing the men speeds on.

A new supply of attractive literature and folders on travel in the Pacific Northwest has just been received by the Gazette Travel Bureau.

AIRDALES HAVE PROVEN EXCELLENT MESSENGERS

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.] Chicago, May 31.—The Airdale, a shaggy, sad-eyed dog that gained popularity only in recent years, has convinced officers of the central department, signal corps, United States army, of its superiority over all breeds as a canine war messenger.

While official authorization for use of the Airdale on the battlefields of Europe has not yet been issued, the war department schools for intensive courses in training have been established and officers say that reports from the various army camps show that the dogs have made remarkable progress.

"The Airdale surpasses all other dogs in point of intelligence, and although peaceful, is also most courageous," said one officer. "Tests have established beyond doubt its superiority over other dogs as a war messenger, particularly those used by the German army."

Airdale is a cross from a bull terrier, otter hound and a Berkeley terrier. It is a result of years of careful breeding and its name, it is said, is derived from the Aire valley of England where it originated.

The dogs now in training were either given to the signal corps by patriotic citizens or purchased by interested army officers. Scores of them with long pedigrees and valued highly have been given and other offers are coming in daily. Females are in greater demand because of their intelligence. Methods of training are a military secret.

"When the dogs are taken at the age of from ten to eighteen months and properly developed as one-man dogs (for the Airdale is distinctly a one-man dog) no beast can equal them as war dogs," said the officer. Their color blends perfectly with night shades. The ability of the dogs to slip quietly through barbed wire entanglements without a scratch is remarkable.

AVIATORS TRAINING IN ITALY ARE GIVEN STIFF INSTRUCTIONS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] American Seaplane Training Camp, Italy, May 1.—The day of an aviator under instruction is a long one in this camp where, thanks to the abundant courtesies of the Italian navy department, there are plenty of machines. The hours of a student are not all taken up with the soaring through the heavens, personally conducted by a crack pilot instructor who varies the monotony by ship dives after lake ducks which, when caught on the wires, are handed over to the Italian mechanics as a bribe to increase their efficiency.

The official list of the studies which are sometimes crowded into the day of a student include instruction in Blue Jacket's Manual, such as navy regulations, what the navy is, what a fellow may do to get ahead, and so forth. Secondly, there is the vital subject of motors, under which head comes the theory and practice of motors, how to repair them, how they are made, their various parts, the different kinds used in different machines and how to handle them when in the air, and many other points.

The theory of airplanes comes third in the list; how and why a machine stays in the air, the angles of tilting the different wing sections, and how to make airplanes and the kinds of wood and fabrics necessary.

The fourth study is radio or wireless with practice in sending at least fifteen words a minute as an observation officer. Next comes navigation, with elementary ground work in the handling of ships, but particularly in the handling of both air and seaplanes with respect to plotting courses. On top of this the student gets infantry drill on the days when the wind makes practice flying dangerous, or is permitted to play baseball in place of setting up exercises to keep him in good physical trim.

While most of the students have already passed ground work training and examinations either in France or the United States, this camp is considered an excellent place not only for learning the practical handling of foreign machines but also for brushing up in the element of the official list of studies. They have plenty of time on rainy days for such studies and for discussing the points of practice and theory among themselves.

The use of special instruments such as the inclinometers, those registering altitude and the like, and the time when such instruments will fail to register, when a fellow must go by "feel," all open up wide fields for discussion. It is in these discussions, with the more experienced men has grown up in the steam navy and knows sea conditions, that the students get much valuable information on how to act under given circumstances.

"What would you do if a bird struck you in the face and broke your goggles?" is one of the puzzling questions sometimes put. While this accident has never occurred so far as the any of the men know, some maintain it comes within the range of possibility.

"How are you going to tell if a submarine is enemy or ally?" point that frequently comes up for discussion. Then the long day is over, after supper, the men are free to swap yarns among themselves or with the English-speaking Italian pilots who have seen active duty in Venice and other ports of the Italian navy. Sometimes they "turn on the music" in the open air and entertain the villagers with the latest "canned stuff" that can be groined out of a phonograph. A contribution to their pleasures from a naval officer who remembers his own lonely times on long stations. Ten o'clock is bedtime and every man must then be in his room, although if he chooses to light plant permitting.

Sales of the Friendly Forest

Well, the next morning when the little rabbits woke up the sun was shining brightly through their bedroom window and Mrs. Mousie was singing a song down in the kitchen below as she made hot muffins for breakfast. And this is what she sang:

"Upstairs in my nice guest room
Are two nice little rabbits in bed.
As soon as I'm able I'll fix up the table
And give them some honey and bread
And then a hot muffin to keep them
And then they'll be bountifully fed."

And when Billy Bunny heard her sing, he hurried to the kitchen and so did the old gentleman rabbit, and he buttoned his collar on backwards and put his left shoe on his right foot and stumbled over his old wedding stovepipe hat.

And after that they both hopped downstairs, and as soon as Mrs. Mousie heard them she brought in the bread and honey and the hot muffins and they all had breakfast. And after that Billy Bunny asked her to go automobiling with them.

So she put on her old gray bonnet with a bit of ribbon on it, and tied the strings under her chin, and put on her black silk mitts and her gold locket breastpin with the picture of Mr. Mousie inside.

"You don't mind if we invite the red rooster to go along, too, do you?" asked Billy Bunny, and then he told her how the rooster had scared away the old owl. And of course Mrs. Mousie didn't care, so the rooster got in and sat on the back seat with Mrs. Mousie.

Well, after they had gone for maybe a mile, and maybe some more, they came to a beautiful candy store where the windows were full of permit sticks and a brown sugar monkey did all sorts of tricks.

"Stop right here," said the red rooster, "and I'll get out and buy you a bag of candy." And when he came back he had four bags of candy. Just think of that. In one bag was sugar-coated carrots for Billy Bunny, and another bag was full of conchitos for Uncle Lucky, and in the bag he gave to Mrs. Mousie were two little chocolate mice.

"What have you got in your bag?" asked Uncle Lucky as he made the Lucky-mobile jump over a ditch and run along through a lovely meadow spread all over with buttercups.

"Sugared peanuts," answered the red rooster. "I just love them. The last time I went to a circus I ate forty-nine bags and a half and I lost twenty-three glasses of pink lemonade and a bushel of popcorn."

"Wait a minute," said the old gentleman rabbit. "I've got a stomach ache now. How did you get it?" And in the next story I'll tell you what the rooster said, that is, if nothing happens to prevent it, for he certainly was a wonderful rooster to be able to eat all that.
